Dare to Dream

Let nothing hold you back from exploring your wildest fantasies, wishes, and aspirations.

Don't be afraid to dream big and to follow your dreams wherever they may lead you.

Open your eyes to their beauty; open your mind to their magic; open your heart to their possibilities.

Dare to dream.

Whether they are in color or in black and white, whether they are big or small, easily attainable or almost impossible, look to your dreams, and make them become reality.

Wishes and hopes are nothing until you take the first step toward making them something!

Dare to dream,

because only by dreaming will you ever discover who you are, what you want, and what you can do.
Don't be afraid to take risks, to become involved, to make a commitment.
Do whatever it takes to make your dreams come true.
Always believe in miracles, and always believe in you!

If we can put a man

You can see your way through
To where you want to be.
There is a way.
There is always a way.
- Douglas Pagels

Another year has passed. It is hard to believe that another school year is almost behind us and our first senior class will graduate. What a milestone! While I am proud of what we have accomplished, I remain convinced it is not enough. Not a day passes that I don't recognize where we need to be; what we need to do to get there; the path we must take. I see the potential of the students here and know that there are others out there who need us; who need what we have to offer. I truly believe that the potential for success resides in each of us. The question often remains, what will we do to bring it life? Many quit along the way because of difficulties, failures or poor choices. The spirit of Hutchings requires that we never quit; never give up in spite of failure and that we make positive choices for ourselves and others. For me, there is always a way.

THE WASHINGTON OF THE WASHINGT

The Waking" by Theodore Roethke wake to sleep, and take my walking slow. feel my fate in what I cannot fear. learn by going where I have to go. Ve think by feeling. What is there to know? hear my being dance from ear to ear. wake to sleep, and take my waking slow. Of those so close behind me, which are you? God bless the ground! I shall walk softly there. And learn by going where I have to go. Light takes the tree; but who can tell us how? The lonely worm climbs up a winding stair wake to sleep, and take my waking slow. Great Nature has another thing to do To you and me; so take the lively air; And, lovely, learn by going where to go. This shaking keeps me steady. I should know. What falls away is always. And is near. I wake to sleep, and take my waking slow.

I learn by going where I have to go.

Suffering Cicadas!

After a 17-year slumber underground, billions of large, noisy periodical cicadas overran large sections of the eastern United States. Although they may give you the creeps, the flying bugs don't bite or sting and generally die about four weeks after emerging.

Tyrannosaurus Reeks!

Using modern materials, scientists recreated what they think dinosaur breath might have smelled like for an exhibit at London's Natural History Museum. Unfortunately, it was so stinky, they had to resort to using a milder swamp smell for the exhibit.

Mount St. Helens not Being Very Ladylike

Mount St. Helens vented clouds of steam as magma rose against the crater bottom causing concern about another eruption. In 1980, 1,314 feet of the mountain was blown away in a cataclysmic eruption that unleashed 24 megatons of thermal energy and killed 57 people.

Three special comets streaked through the summer sky in 2004. On its own, this fact isn't terribly earth shaking—the appearance of comets in the night sky is not unusual. What was unique about this trio is that all three of these particular comets could be seen with the naked eye. Since naked-eye comets usually pass Earth only once every five years or so, to see three in the span of a few weeks is a rare sight indeed.

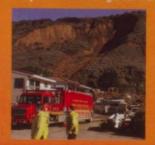

Gray Wolves Back in the Black

After being hunted nearly to the brink of extinction, gray wolf populations have recovered so successfully in the continental United States that the U.S. government may soon remove them from its endangered species list. Unfortunately, the gray wolf's cousin, the red wolf, continues to be endangered. Long cast unfairly as villains of fairy tales and urban legends, wolves are highly social, highly intelligent animals that hunt in packs to bring down moose, deer and other large mammals.

Arctic Glaciers Feeling the Heat

In separate studies, glaciers that were once supported by a floating ice shelf in Antarctica have now been shown to be sliding into the sea. Many scientists are concerned that the melting ice, which could eventually lead to rising sea levels, may be a result of global warming.
